What is "Slow Burnin" ?

"Slow Burnin'" is an outdoor festival that brings together various elements of street culture, including bicycle racing, music, art, and shops. It originated from the collaboration among messengers and their "Slow Squad" fellows. The festival aims to expand the thoughts of learning and connecting with the world through messenger culture, fostering cooperation and a sense of unity. The goal is to foster a community where more companions collaborate and support each other, striving for self-sufficiency and independence, free from exploitation.

The festival will take place from September 16th to 18th, spanning three days. Set against the backdrop of Mount Fuji in Shizuoka, it offers an ideal location for camping and enjoying the events. The venue is "Autocamp Mogura," a campsite located in Numazu City, Shizuoka Prefecture. Participants will gather at the nearest station, Shuzenji, on the morning of the event's start. From there, they will embark on a group ride that takes around three hours to reach the festival grounds. After enjoying the events for two nights and three days, there will be another group ride from Shizuoka to Yokohama, spanning two days from September 18th to 19th. From the 20th, The CMWC will start in Yokohama.

How to Get to Shuzenji?

It takes approximately 2.5 hours by train from Yokohama or Tokyo to Shuzenji. You can bring your bicycle on board if it is packed in a bike bag.

If you prefer to cycle the entire way, it is around 140 kilometers and takes approximately 12 hours. Shuzenji is a renowned tourist destination famous for its traditional Japanese streetscapes and hot springs. It's a great idea to arrive at the location a day prior and enjoy sightseeing before the event.

To all overseas participants of the pre-event, Welcome to Slow Burnin' 2023 Japan! We would like to inform you that our bike party is an outdoor event, and therefore, it is essential to have your own tent for accommodation. We have arranged for one support car during the group ride, where you can store your belongings securely.

Additionally, for the overnight group ride from "Auto Camp Mogura to Yokohama", accommodation will be provided in cottages at the lodging facility.

We are also looking for other musicians and artists who would like to participate in the festival.

If you have any questions, please email slowsquad420@gmail.com
